WATER POLICE SMOKING

One of the most successful "smokers' ever held in connection with the Water Police took place on Friday evening when the annual concert was held. A large matshed was erected in the spacious compound of the Tsimehatsui Police Station and this was prettily decorated, while innumerable Chinese lante as lighted up the place. Mr secretary, Mr A. Pattison, treasurer, and the committee-Messra Boole, Caygill, Davis, Boulger, Earner, Jackson, Edwards, Sutton, Munday, L. A. Langley, Garner, Thompson, Bruck, Connaughten, Thomas and McCorkell-were indefatigable in their attentions for the comfort and enjoyment of their numerous guests to whom hearty New Year greetings were extended. Lieut. .C. W. Beckwith, R.N., Superintendent of the Water Police, presided and thanked the members of the force for the honour they had done him in asking him to take the chair at one of the biggest concerts taking place during the year at Kowloon He took the opportunity of wishing all present a Happy New Year and a jolly good one, and he trusted they would have no doctors' bills. He also asked the guests to forget, for once, that they were in a police station, and "let things go a bit." An axcellent and exceptionally long pro- the same day. "gramme was arranged. It included sentimental and comic songs, dances, recitations, while conjuring tricks and sword and club exhibitions were given by Messrs Brook, Allen, Englefield, Cobb, Peel, Burgess, Day, Lavery, Hoge, Sturdy, Bunyard, Summerscales, Tomkins and Everyone spent a happy and enjoyable time and the several artistes were duly accorded a just measure of approciation.

The total collection of ducs and duties at Kowloon for the quarter ended Septem ber 30th, 1909, by the Chinese Imperial Maritime Customs amounted to 82,619.836 Haikwan taels, compared with 81,488,368 for the corresponding quarter of 1908.

The dues and duties collected at Canton by the Imperial Maritime Customs during the quarter July September 1909 totalled 814,763,386 Haikwail taole, against 880 423.050 tacks for 1908 and 859,118,390 for 1907. The native customs collected 59,834.154 faels during the 1909 quarter.

A WOMAN IN WAR Lady Sarah Wilson's New Book on South Africa.

"Everything of interest that has happened to me in life chances to have been in commection with South Africa," writes Lady Sarah Wilson in her preface to "South African Memories" which has just been published. Few things of interest appear to have happened in South Africa with which Lady Sarah Wilson has not been connected, one might say, after reading these memories.

She was there at the time of the Jameson raid, she was in Mafeking during the war, and she has since advanced on a shooting expedition north of the Zambosi. Cortainly fow could hope to live a life of such excitement and advocture in more than onecontinent, or to descibe it with so graphic

At the outbreak of the war she was in Mafeking, and delayed departing for the south till it was too late. On that fateful day in October, "just as I was going to Baden-Powell, through one of his staff, to say he had just been informed on trustworthy authority that no fewer than 8,000 burghers composed the force likely to arrive on the morrow, that it was probable they would rush the town, and that the garrisonwould be obliged to fight its way out. He concluded by begging me to leave at once by road for the nearest point of safety. Naturally I had to obey."

BETRAYED BY A PIGEON. Lady Sarah Wilson relates how her capture by the Boers was the result of a message ant by a carrier pigeon from Setlagoli to Mafeking, which was captured by the Boers, informing Colonel Baden-Powell that she would be able to forward any letters. A party of Boers came to find her, and through one of them. Districh. she had an exciting few moments.

Mr Lamb's (a neighbouring farmer) cheurmeet him, and who, it appeared, was an old friend of his. After having, as he thought, disposed of him, he came and joined us on the steps.

"There we freely discussed our visitors, and were having a cheery conversation, when I suddenly looked up, and round the cor, er of the verandah saw the unsteady form of a typical Boer—slouch hat, bandolier, and rifle, complete, staggering towards us, truly a weird apparition. The rising moon shining on the rifle-barrel made it glitter like silver. "I confess I disappeared round the corner to my room with more haste than dignity. To Boers by daytime, when sober, I had by now become accustomed, but at night, after liberal doses of 'dop' armed with a loaded rifle. I preferred their room

I was at once structs by the anything but affable expression of their coun tenances. They motioned to me to take a chair; someone handed me a bowl with a brown mixture-presumably coffee-which I found very embarrassing to hold during our conversation.

EXCHANGED FOR A CRIMINAL. "This was carried on through the secretary, and the general got more and more out of temper as he discovered what my request was. I informed him, ... I was prepared to ask Colonel Baden-Powell to exchange me for a Dutch lady whom I heard wished to leave, if the General (Suyman) would accept the exchange. "He promptly and with much decision

Accompanied by the secretary, and leaving the staring crowd behind. I drove off to a little house about half a mile away. where we found our destination. I was shown into a tiny room, smelling strongly of disinfectants, which from the large centre table I at once reorgnised as the operating-room, and here I was told I could sleep. The secretary then informed me that they had to search my luggage, which operation lasted fully half an hour, al though I had but one small portmanteau and a dressing-case.

"Needless to say they found nothing. They had harely finished their researches when a messenger came from the general to say, if Colonel Baden-Powell would exchange me for a Dutchman imprisoned would consent to my going in "

The difficulty of this exchange lay in the fact that Viljoen was a criminal under the was some time before it could be overcome. Moanwhile, Lady Sarah Wilson collected matter for a very interesting chapter upon the Roer camp. 🦠 CECIL REODES.

2 West View, Cottingham, Nr. Hull. Dear Sira,-I beg to tender you my deep gratitude for the benefit I have derived from Angier's Emulsion. Last July I was taken seriously. ill with congestion of the lungs and was much run-down, my weight being reduced to 10 st. 5 lb. My doctor ordered me to take a course of Angier's Emulsion, and now after two months' treatment I am able to return to work well and strong and my weight has increased to 12 st. 7.1b. I have taken altogether seven bottles and now feel like man ought to feel, well and able, prepared for anything. Again thanking (Signed) G. WESTERDALE. you for your valuable remedy.

HEALING AND STRENGTHENING.

The remarkable healing properties of our special petroleum combined with the tonic effects of the hypophosphites make Angier's Emulsion different and superior to all other emulsions. It is soothing to the entire mucous tract—throat, jlungs, stomach and intestines—and at the same time promotes appetite, aids digestion and builds up strength. No other emulsion has the same soothing, cough-allaying, lung-healing power, nor the same tonic effect upon appetite and digestion. Angier's Emulsion—is invaluable in lung affections, digestive disorders, nervous affections and all wasting diseases.

The result is a delightful volume of reminiscences, "Momories of Fifty Years" which brings the story of her life and many friendships to the Jubilee year 1887.

A daughter of Keith Stewart Mackenzie. who succeeded through his mother to the inheritance, though not to the title, of the Earls of Seaforth, chiefs of Clan Mackenzie, Lady St. Helier spent much of her youth in the Highlands, living for a time with her grandmother, the last earl's heiress, at Brahan Castle, in Ross-shire. Some of Lady St Helier's early recollections are of Ireland, where she often stayed with her aunt, Lady Ely (Queen Victoria's friend and lady-in-waiting), and other relatives. An attractive figure in Dublin society was the witty judge Lord Morris, who, though strong in his Unionist convictions, was popular with all classes of his countrymen. Even the Liberal Lord Lieutenant, Lord Abardeen, was his friend and at Lady Aberdeen's expense the judge indulged in one of his charactoristic "mots" at a large party given at the Castle during a temporary the United States, and Canada. They full in the political strife. Lady Aberdeen, in her kindly manner, was rejoicing over the large and friendly gathering, which she thought to be a happy augury of herents for its polygamous practices the peaceful realisation of Nationalist She writes, "Mormonism was the outcome hopes. Lord Morris bluntly replied, "I of one of those curious emotional waves don't believe there is anyone in the room in favour of Home Rule, barring your Excellency and the waiters." Lady St. Helier suggests that one of the most distinctive features of Irish humour is often logical conseque ce of the social and its apparent lack. She quotes the story of a domestic conditions in which the first small farmer who, after Mr Balfour's dwellers in the valley of Salt Lake soon regime had brought about a distinct found themselves. The difficulty of findimprovement in the conditions of life, attaining anything like domestic comfort, came unexpectedly to pay his rent, which made it almost a matter of necessity had long been in arrears. The agent that, where a man was rich enough expressed his great surprise, whereupon to keep servants, he was obliged in some way or another to render it impossible for them to leave him, and the result of be to God and Bloody Balfour, ony that position was that they became his man can pay his rent!" Colonel Edward Taylor, principal whip of the Conservative or a nurse—the only possibility of his get-Party when Derby and Disraeli were its sealing them to himself—and so polygamy chiefs, was a great man in the Ireland of forty years ago. "Tall, broad-shouldered, good looking, most hearty and cheery, he was a delightful companion and wonderful recontour of Irish "stories, with he told in a racy and unconventional manner, though they were not perhaps, always appropriate to the company in which he delivered them. Lady St. Helier quotes as an example a story of his which, though not entirely unknown to print, may be new to many of He came out to Australia in his barrister our readers. Lady St. Helier has much to say of London as it was when she "came out in the sixties. Lord Dudley, father o the present Governor-General of Australia was, she tells us, very kind to young people, and the balls at Dudley-house were always great events. In the days when she first knew him he was a bachelor, and attended personally to all the details of his entertainments. "Everybody wore her best frock when invited to Dudleyhouse, as the host was most particular that his guests should appear 'en grande toilette, and he also insisted that nobody who was invited should wear black. The last ball I went to at Dudleyhouse was after this marriage to the beautiful Miss Moncrieffe" (the present dowager countess, now on her way to Australia), "and I can see her still, a perfect Our Business will be CARRIED ON as vision, as she stood at the top of the stairs receiving her guests. There were many lovely women in Landon then, but nobody could ever approach her in the dazzling brilliancy of her beauty." Lady St. Helier IS THE PINEST BLOOD PURIPIER describes how popular Queen Alexandra was, when she came to London on her marriage to the King, then Prince of Wales. Lady St. Halier then observed, "I think Lord Sherbrooks has at least one very good point." Knowing how trying Lady Sherbrooks is, and how very ugly. I think his patience is admirable." Lord Beaconsfield looked at the speaks with a twinkle in his eye, and said. "De you think he has ever seen her?" an allusion to Lord Sharbrooks's very bad sight. From Colonel Stanley's letters Lady St. Helior gives some excellent descriptions Paris during the Commune, and she also writes entertainingly of a trip with him to visited Salt Lake City, and she puts for ward an interesting suggestion as to the reasons why Mormonism gained so many adwhich are so strongly characteristic of the growth of a young country, there seemed another very potent reason (to those who asw the Mormons and lived for even a short time among them) for its continuance ing servants, and the impossibility of wives. 'A man wanted a cook, a housemaid, gave a religious sanction to a condition which would" otherwise have been impossible." Lady St. Helier found the same state of things wherever they want on their many expeditions to the various settle-ments. "A man had four or five wives, who were in reality domestic drudges but undertook different kinds of work, and each woman, for the sake of her children, was obliged to remain with her husband and his other wives, making the best she could of her unenviable position.' It was in 1881 that Lady St Helier married Mr Jeune, who was latter to be the famous President of the Divorce Court. borne claimant, and went among other places, to Wagga Wagga. ELECTION, ISSUES.

On the eve of a General Election certain to be most momentous in its ultimate results, we are eagerly awaiting the effect of the first batch of pollings which are to take place in borough constituencies in the British Isles to-day. Though these may not supply us with an infallible guide such as would enable a prophecy to be formulated with absolute sureness as to what political colour the majority will favour throughout the whole country, yet there seem good reasons for holding the view-that, in the present, hesitating mood of_public opinion at Home, a big lead by either

THICKERAY'S OHAR.

"The Cornhill Magnetus

The jubilee of The Cornell Magazine which is completed with the December number, is to be commemorated by a special article in the January issue. Meanwhile. so much interest has been aroused by the event that a brief summary may be given of the magazine's record.

"As with [10] the great enterprises associated with the firm of Smith. Elder and Co., the Cornhill owed its inception to the fertile brain of the late George Smith. His original idea was to provide Thackeray with a medium for scrializing a new story. It was only after the failure to find a suitable editor that the novelist was invited to fill the position. The salary was to be £1,000 year and the paymen's for the serial instalments of "Lovel the Widower" were fixed at £350 a month. The "Roundabout Papers" brought in the comfortable addition of twelve guineas a page. The success of the venture was complete." A hundred and | 155 twenty thousand copies of the first number were sold, and Thackeray's salary was Among the early contributors who helped to make the magazine an institution were John Ruskin, George Henry Lewes, Tennyson, Mrs Browning, Fitziames Stephen. George Eliot and Anthony Trollepe, among the authors; and Millais, Leighton, Richard Doyle and George Du Maurier among the artists. Tennyson was offered instead, he contributed "Tithonus" to at Noon, the second number. The biggest sum offered was £10,000 for sixteen instalments: But George Eliot found that the plan of the story would permit of only twelve parts, so she proposed to take £7,000. Eventually fourteen instalments were required. "Romola" did not assist to increase the sale of the magazine, and so as compensation the author made a free offering of "Brother Jacob" to Mr Smith. The following anecdote told by Mr Smith s also worth reviving :-" Trollope came to me in Pall Mall, where we now had a branch office, to arrange for a new sorial. I told him my terms, but he demurred to my offer of £2,000 and said that he had hoped for £3,000. I shook my head. Well, he replied, let us toss for that other £1,000.11 Mr Smith urged that his business reputation would not stand such sporting methods, but suggested an adjournment to a private room at his club, where he was willing to toss Trollope for £1,000 win or lose. The offer was not accepted. Thackeray resigned the editorial chair in 1862, the responsibilities being irksome to his sensitive temporament. He was succeeded in turn by George Houry Lewes, assisted by young George Greenwood, then by THE EASTERN & Greenwood alone, Dutton Cook, Lealie Stepben, and James Payn. Payn, by the way had the distinction of declining . John Inglesant." Another incident that must not be passed over is the writing by Dickens. of an "In memoriam" article on the death of Thackerny, payment for which was

To give in detail all the literary triumphs won by the Cornhill would be to write a volume. In its pages appeared "Framley Parsonage," and "The Small House at Allington." Mrs Gaskell's "Wives and Daughters" was another happy find. With the £20,000 paid to her for it the author bought the country house near Alton. Then Wilkie Collins's " - rmadule" was scrialised, to be followed by Charles Reade's "Put Tourself in His Place," and George Meredith's "Adventures of Harry Rich-

Other notable productions were Mrs Ritchie's "Old Kensing on." Blackmore's "Erems," Black's "Three Feathers" and White Wings," Mrs Oliphant's 'Carita." and "Within the Precincts." Mr W. E. Norris's "Mille de Mersac; Mr Henry James's Washington Square, Mr Thomas Hardy's "Far from the Madding Crowd" and "The Hand of Ethelberta," and Mr James Payn's "Grape from a Thorn." Latter came Mr Anstey's Vice Versa," and the novels by Sir A. Conan Doyle, H. S. Merriman, Mr Stanley Weyman, and Mrs Humphry Ward, who has received the largest sums ever paid by the firm to an author for all rights. Lealie Stephen contributed the essays of erwards collected as "Hours in a Library" and "History of Thought in the Eighteenth Century," and John Addington Symonds his "History of the Renaisance." Richard Jeffries's rural sketches also found

CASE SEEMED HOPELESS

BUT CUTICURA CURED HER-

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I spilered with. It broke out on my head and kept spreading until it covered my whole body. I was almost a solid mass of scree from head to foot. I looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. The pain and agony I endured seemed more than I could bear. Blood and pus occed from the great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my water and Cuticura Scap, then apply the Cintment freely... I also took Cuti-cura Resolvent for the blood. In a ahort time the sares stopped running, the flesh began to heal, and I knew I was to get well again. Then the hair on my head began to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured.

I cannot praise Cuticura enough. I wish I could tell everybody who has eczema to use Cuticura. Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newsrk, N. J., U. S. A., Sept. 28, 1908.

my finger nails, and nearly all over my body. My ears were so crusted and swollen I was afraid they would break off. Every hair in my head fall out. I could not alt down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding fiesh, making me cry out from the pain. My family doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. My condition was awful. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to come and and my frightful sufferings.

In this condition my mother-in-law begged me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Cintment. It cooled the bleeding and itching fiesh and brought me the first real aloop I had had in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Scap, then apply
